IN CHATION REPORT

This material contains information affecting the National Defense of the United States within the meaning of the Espionage Laws, Title 18, U.S.C. Secs. 793 and 794, the transmission or revelation of which in any manner to an unauthorized person is prohibited by law.

SECRET/NOFORN

25X1

COUNTRY Best Germany	REPORT
SUBJECT German Officers' and Schooling in East Berlin	ldiers' DATE DISTR. 23 September 1955
June 1955	NO. OF PAGES 5
DATE OF INFO.	REQUIREMENT NO. RD
PLACE ACQUIRED	REFERENCES 25X1
DATE ACQUIRED	is is UNEVALUATED Information

THE SOURCE EVALUATIONS IN THIS REPORT ARE DEFINITIVE.

THE APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE.

(FOR KEY SEE REVERSE)

1. Reception and Lodgings

25X1

Headquarters for the All-German Officers' and Soldiers' Meeting in East Berlin on 25-26 June 1955, were located in the Hotel Johannishof. All persons attending the meeting had to check in at the reception bureau at the Johannishof. The meeting, like that in January 1955, was in the hands of Gaudigks (fnu) and Major General Arthur Brandt. About 150 participants, including Field Marshal Friedrich Paulus and his closest associates, were lodged in the Hotel Johannishof. Paulus had a private salon and bedroom. Others were given rooms in the Hotel Adria. The remainder were housed in private quarters. Gaudigks was in charge of quartering all guests.

2. Control Measures

The reception bureau in the Hotel Johannishof was closely watched by the SfS1, and no announcement of names was permitted. The guests were carefully checked in other ways: each individual was presented by the head-quarters office with a special admission card for the Kammerspiele Theater, admitting to the opening session, the closed performance of "Minna von Barnhelm", and the session of 26 June in which a proclamation was read and approved. No other outsider, except members of the orchestra and the actor Eduard von Winterstein, was permitted to attend the last session.

3. Attendance

Total attendance was reported in the newspapers as 500, of whom 350 came estimated the total number of participants at 400 to 450 persons, because the Hotel Johannishof, where dinners were provided for all who attended, had to raise its estimate from 300 to 400 plates. One of the principal organizers of the meeting stated privately that 650 persons had announced their intention of coming to the meeting, but that the

SECRET/NOFORN

STATE # X ARMY# X NAVY/ X AIR # X FBI AEC

(Note: Washington distribution indicated by "X"; Field distribution by "#".)

M

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

Med .

25X1

25X1

- 2 -

management had permitted only 350 of these to attend, when it was discovered that many veterans were attracted only by the opportunity for free meals and a free trip to Berlin. A number of firm acceptances were revoked by individuals at the last moment.

About half the officers who had attended the January 1955 meeting were again present at the June conference. The great majority of the participants, however, were new. Approximately 50 percent were officers, the remainder were non-commissioned officers and a few enlisted men. most of whom had been awarded the Knight's Cross (Ritterkreustraeger).

Some of the East Germans were invited by Gaudigks, who handed them a written invitation signed by Dr. Hummeltenberg.

About twenty former officers came from Leipzig, according to a highly placed member of the Mational Democratic Party (NDP). Major General Sander (fnu), of the Waffen 55, was also noted among the guests.

On the other hand, several important participants at the January conclave were conspicuous by their absence at the June conference.

4. Free Traveland Board

This time the participants did not receive a per diem allowance, but did receive free travel and free board and room during their entire stay in Berlin. The food was outstandingly good, and was in glaring contrast to the conditions in East Berlin. Drinks were varied and plentiful. Only the best Western wines were served.

5. Total Cost of the Meeting

Actually the cost of entertaining each participant must have amounted at least to 80 DME, and to this the cost of drinks and smokes should be added.

The principal items of expense, in addition to the rooms at the Johannishof and the Adria, and the very sumptuous food, were the cost of the Leipzig Symphony Orchestra of the State Radio Committee, and the performance of "Minna von Barnhelm".

The cost of the entire conference must have amounted to a round 100,000 DME.3

6. Conference Sessions

The principal sessions of the conference were held in the Kammerspiele Theater. This fact had not been announced in the original program, and was not known to the participants until the last minute. The meeting rooms in the Hotel Johannishof were to small to hold all the guests.

The schedule began on 25 June with reception and registration of the guests up to 10:30 a.m. in the Hotel Johannishof. This was followed by lunch from

SECRET/NOFORN

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

11:15 to 12:15 in both hotels, according to one's lodging. At 1:30 p.m. the regular conference began with the opening ceremonies and the welcoming of the participants. A certain Schneider (fmu), member of the HDP, presided. Since the Presiding Directorate and the Drafting Committee had already been appointed, there was no question of an election of a chairman or other officers by the conference itself.

Printed programs announced the "Meeting of the Former Officers and Soldiers in the German Capital City of Berlin" and presented the conference with a motto: "For a peaceful, united, independent Fatherland!"

The first speech, by Paulus, called for the reconstitution of the unity of Germany, the formation of an All-German government, free elections, withdrawal of all occupation troops, and creation of a neutral Germany (ein neutrales Deutschland) participating in a past of collective security. An All-German government was to be created by bringing together the two existing governments and forming a provisional government for all Germany, which would make preparations for free All-German elections, and other duties.

. و
	rectorate and Drafting Committee
	Presiding Directorate had been appointed before the meeting. The 19 shers included:
	Friedrich Paulus, former Field Marshal, now of Dresden.
•	Arthur Brandt, former Lagutement General of the Air Force.
•,	Georg Ebrecht, former Lieutenant General of the Waffen-SS, of Lindsu.
	Josephin Hehring, former Second Lieutenant of the Waffen-SS, of Dresden
•	Heaning (fmu), former Major General, commander of the Dreeden 194th Artillery Regiment.
•	Gandighs (fmu), of Dresden.
	Friedrich Kusse, former Major General, of Leipzig.
• [
•	Schneider (fnu), member of the Hast German HIP.
	Dr. Mest Hummeltenberg.5
	Boetticher (fmu), former Captain, member of the HDP, Dreeden.
	(amy, avenue out out of the mar, breaden.
•

SECRET/NOFORN

demands contained in the proclamation read and approved at the contained in		25
Attitudes Expressed
defore and after the sessions in the Kommerspiele, many participants set and conversed with each other in the hotel lobbies. On several occasions, those who had drunk too heavily became involved in laud alter-	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	25
estions.	–	25
	in the Section
	-
	9 4 9 4
perticipent also had sent Paulus a French newspaper with		25
participent also had sent Paulus a French newspaper with a warning against attending the meeting of the "Communist Field Marshal", and had supplemented this warning with the statement that the aims of the demonstration ran counter to the foreign political interests of the Kremlin. One of Paulus' intimates advised him to take the newspaper directly to the Soviet ambassador, G.M. Pushkin, and ask for a clarification of the matter, and, "this time not to get advice second-hand throughli Steph". Later it was learned that Paulus lacked the courage to go directly to the Russian ambassador.		25
a warning against attending the meeting of the "Communist Field Marchel", and had supplemented this warning with the statement that the aims of the demonstration ran counter to the foreign political interests of the Kramlin. One of Paulus' intimates advised him to take the newspaper lirectly to the Soviet ambassador, G.M. Pushkin, and ask for a clarification of the matter, and, "this time not to get advice second-hand throughli Steph". Later it was learned that Paulus lacked the courage to go lirectly to the Russian ambassador. Then a friend of Paulus protested to him against the intrusion of SS		25
warning against ettending the meeting of the "Communist Field Marchal", and had supplemented this warning with the statement that the aims of the demonstration ran counter to the foreign political interests of the Kremlin. One of Paulus' intimates advised him to take the newspaper lirectly to the Soviet ambassador, G.M. Pushkin, and ask for a clarification of the matter, and, "this time not to get advice second-hand throughly to the Russian ambassador.		25
a warning against attending the meeting of the "Communist Field Marchel", and had supplemented this warning with the statement that the aims of the demonstration ran counter to the foreign political interests of the Kremlin. One of Paulus' intimates advised him to take the newspaper lirectly to the Soviet ambassador, G.M. Pushkin, and ask for a clarification of the matter, and, "this time not to get advice second-hand throughli Steph". Later it was learned that Paulus lacked the courage to go directly to the Russian ambassador. Then a friend of Paulus protested to him against the intrusion of SS officers into the movement led by Paulus, the latter refused to enter		25
a warning against attending the meeting of the "Communist Field Marchel", and had supplemented this warning with the statement that the aims of the demonstration ran counter to the foreign political interests of the Kremlin. One of Paulus' intimates advised him to take the newspaper lirectly to the Soviet ambassador, G.M. Pushkin, and ask for a clarification of the matter, and, "this time not to get advice second-hand throughli Steph". Later it was learned that Paulus lacked the courage to go directly to the Russian ambassador. Then a friend of Paulus protested to him against the intrusion of SS officers into the movement led by Paulus, the latter refused to enter		, a warning against attending the meeting of the "Communist Field Marchel", and had supplemented this warning with the statement that the aims of the demonstration ran counter to the foreign political interests of the Kremlin. One of Paulus' intimates advised him to take the newspaper lirectly to the Soviet ambassador, G.M. Pushkin, and ask for a clarification of the matter, and, "this time not to get advice second-hand throughli Steph". Later it was learned that Paulus lacked the courage to go directly to the Russian ambassador. Then a friend of Paulus protested to him against the intrusion of SS officers into the movement led by Paulus, the latter refused to enter a warning against attending the meeting of the "Communist Field Marchel", and had supplemented this warning with the statement that the aims of the demonstration ran counter to the foreign political interests of the Kremlin. One of Paulus' intimates advised him to take the newspaper lirectly to the Soviet ambassador, G.M. Pushkin, and ask for a clarification of the matter, and, "this time not to get advice second-hand throughli Steph". Later it was learned that Paulus lacked the courage to go directly to the Russian ambassador. Then a friend of Paulus protested to him against the intrusion of SS officers into the movement led by Paulus, the latter refused to enter a warning against attending the meeting of the "Communist Field Marchel", and had supplemented this warning with the statement that the aims of the demonstration ran counter to the foreign political interests of the Kremlin. One of Paulus' intimates advised him to take the newspaper lirectly to the Soviet ambassador, G.M. Pushkin, and ask for a clarification of the matter, and, "this time not to get advice second-hand throughli Steph". Later it was learned that Paulus lacked the courage to go directly to the Russian ambassador. Then a friend of Paulus protested to him against the intrusion of SS officers into the movement led by Paulus, the latter refused to enter a warning against attending the meeting of the "Communist Field Marchel", and had supplemented this warning with the statement that the aims of the demonstration ran counter to the foreign political interests of the Kremlin. One of Paulus' intimates advised him to take the newspaper lirectly to the Soviet ambassador, G.M. Pushkin, and ask for a clarification of the matter, and, "this time not to get advice second-hand throughli Steph". Later it was learned that Paulus lacked the courage to go directly to the Russian ambassador. Then a friend of Paulus protested to him against the intrusion of SS officers into the movement led by Paulus, the latter refused to enter a warning against attending the meeting of the "Communist Field Marchel", and had supplemented this warning with the statement that the aims of the demonstration ran counter to the foreign political interests of the Kremlin. One of Paulus' intimates advised him to take the newspaper lirectly to the Soviet ambassador, G.M. Pushkin, and ask for a clarification of the matter, and, "this time not to get advice second-hand throughli Steph". Later it was learned that Paulus lacked the courage to go directly to the Russian ambassador. Then a friend of Paulus protested to him against the intrusion of SS officers into the movement led by Paulus, the latter refused to enter

DLN

	DECRET/ NOFORM	25X1
	- 5 -	20/(1
	was possible to conduct a true discussion; at the June meeting the entire program was predetermined down to the smallest detail. But only Paulus' speech ("Soldiers of two world wars summen the German people to unity and peace"), but also the four so-called "discussion speeches" (Diskussions-referate), were prepared in detail in advance, and probably consored as well. All possibility of a valid interchange of ideas among the participants was excluded. General Brankt himself admitted that the present meeting had a different character from the former gathering: the January meeting was a sort of test meeting to sound opinion and determine the principal themes (Richtlinien), and the interim meeting with twenty Knight's Cross holders had a similar purpose. The present meeting, on the other hand, was intended as a demonstration (Kundgsbung) for foreign consumption, since, in the matter of haute politique, "the time is five minutes before twelve."
	The speeches were to be printed and sent in quantities to all participants. By this means the East Berlin soldiers' Meeting was to be made the starting point for the formation of loose organisations in the cities and also in East Germany. These organisational units are to discuss the points made in the various speeches. Thus the participants at the meeting are to become nuclei for the construction of a decentralized organization of the kind indicated. Henring, who was seen to discuss with Paulus on several different occasions the drafting of the speeches for print was asked to make the necessary corrections so that the speeches would provide a better point of departure for further discussions.	25X1
	Two NDP secretaries also assisted at the meeting by acting as cashiers for the payment of travel expenses, and handling various secretarial work. In contrast to the first officers' meeting in January, it was not the Peace Council which handled the support of the conference, but this time it was the National Democratic Party (NDP). After the close of the meeting, Paulus, Mehring, Gaudigks, and Dr. Hummeltenberg remained together in conference. Paulus did not depart for Dresden until the second day later.
1.	Mark Carles	25 X 1
2.	Comment: To what extent the organisers of the conference were able to tap informal veterans' groups already existing is not clear, but the fact that cohesive groups ambared lends weight to the assumption that Mehring and Wagner had already organized units to which Paulus could now turn.	25X1 25X1 25X1 25X1
3.	Comment: Previously, the cost of the meeting had been estimated at 45,000 DM (West), to be provided by the Bast German Interior Ministry.	25X1
4.	Comment: According to Famine, Burneltenberg (who is Familie' representative in Berlin) was intimately econocted with the management of the whole meeting.	25 X 1
5.	Comment: Newspaper accounts game Hummeltenberg the title of "Lieutenant".	25X1
6.	Comment: A representative of the Bast German Ministry of Interior stated that the purpose of the meeting was primarily to interest former	25X1
	Masis in a united Germany.	25 X 1